

Regency Construction Services Promotes Two to New Leadership Roles

CLEVELAND, OH (January 2023) – Janelle Hinkle and Scott Wagner recently assumed new leadership roles at Regency Construction Services Inc., where they have spent most of their careers.

Hinkle is the vice president of construction operations. She provides overall direction to the day-to-day construction operations of the company. Janelle also chairs Regency's Safety Committee.

Wagner takes on the role of vice president of corporate operations. In addition to overseeing the company's business operations, he continues to lead business development and marketing.

Founder and President, Tari Rivera made the announcement this week. "I'm pleased to have these two talented individuals in these newly created leadership roles. They have been key members of the staff for years and will continue working closely with our clients and our team," she says.

Hinkle's first experience at Regency came as an intern. In 2013, she joined the company as a project engineer. Since then, she was promoted to project manager and, most recently, to project executive. Hinkle's experience spans the healthcare, education, library, nonprofit, parks, civic, and commercial construction industries.

Hinkle earned a Master of Business Administration from John Carroll University and a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the University of Notre Dame. She serves as a board member of the ACE Mentor Program of Cleveland and on the Future Executive's Committee of the Construction Employer Association. Janelle was a member of Cleveland Leadership Bridge Builder's Class of 2019 and is engaged in a variety of other community organizations.

"I'm thrilled to be part of the future of Regency and continue the legacy of strong female leadership," she says.

Wagner has served in several roles since he joined Regency in 2001, including project manager and estimating manager. He has extensive experience with education, library, parks, government, civic, healthcare, and commercial projects.

Wagner earned a Bachelor of Science in construction engineering technology and construction management at The University of Akron and a Bachelor of Science in speech communication and broadcasting at Baldwin Wallace University. He is a national board member of COGENCE and serves on the program committee for the Society for Marketing Professional Services.

"It has been exciting to be a part of Regency's growth over the last 20 years, and I look forward to being part of our continued success. Regency's future is bright with our team of talented employees and legacy of female ownership," Wagner says.
