Stella Maris – Where Community and Recovery Come Together

The Construction Employers Association's generous members make an impact in the community in many ways. Enter Stella Maris - the oldest detox and sober house in the United States. It is conveniently located on the west bank of the Flats in Downtown Cleveland and easily accessible for those who need it. Founded in 1948 by seven members of AA, Stella Maris continues to be a safe haven for Clevelanders seeking addiction recovery. Stella Maris is an asset to the construction community, and construction owners have been known to take their workers here to support their journey to sobriety, because family comes first in construction.

In December 2022, CEA's CEO, Tim Linville, interviewed Daniel Lettenberger-Klein, the Executive Director of Stella Maris on "The Construction Employers Podcast". CEA supports many charitable initiatives like Stella Maris that impact families in the union construction industry. At the annual Holiday Social, the CEA Future Executives Committee designated Stella Maris as the beneficiary of their holiday raffle. CEA maintains a culture of care within the organization and is proud to support numerous charitable initiatives.

If you would like to support Stella Maris mission, monetary donations can be made at stellamariscleveland.com, or visit their coffee shop for your next cup of Joe or remote workday!
